

Interview Questions

Ed Stetzer, Author of Christians in the Age of Outrage

About the Author

Ed Stetzer holds the Billy Graham Distinguished Chair for Church, Mission, and Evangelism at Wheaton College, where he also serves as executive director of the Billy Graham Center. Stetzer has two earned doctorates and two master's degrees, and has written or cowritten more than a dozen books and hundreds of articles. He is the director for Lausanne North America and is on the board of the National Association of Evangelicals. Stetzer is a contributing editor for Christianity Today and is the executive editor of The Gospel Project, a Bible study curriculum used by more than one million people each week.

Interview Questions

1. What is your hope for this book? Why is this message so important in today's culture?
2. You've conducted research on what concerns evangelicals the most in our new age of social media outrage. Can you share some of your findings with us and provide some advice for Christians in navigating this chaotic era?
3. How have social media, technology, and "fake news" impacted our culture? How have they specifically impacted evangelicalism and our Christian witness?
4. How do you think Christianity is portrayed in today's culture? How did we get here?
5. How has the effectiveness of our collective and individual witness changed? What do we need to do to improve this situation?
6. Generally speaking, do you think there is a disparity between our public witness and our individual witness to those in our neighborhood? If so, what is your advice for reconciling this disparity?
7. How would you advise Christians to navigate life in a post-Christian culture? The world has changed. What is required of us in response to these changes?
8. How would you advise Christians to respond when they see Christians/Christianity in the media and think, "That's not me"?
9. If you could provide Christians with one piece of advice for navigating today's culture, what would it be?
10. How do you hope your message will resonate with your readers?

Christians in the Age of Outrage* by Ed Stetzer
ISBN: 978-1-4964-3361-9
Hardcover: $25.99
October 2018
TyndaleMomentum.com