

Media Alert

The Saturday Night Supper Club

Denver chef Rachel Bishop has accomplished everything she's dreamed and some things she never dared hope, like winning a James Beard Award and heading up her own fine-dining restaurant. But when a targeted smear campaign causes her to be pushed out of the business by her partners, she vows to do whatever it takes to get her life back . . . even if that means joining forces with the man who inadvertently set the disaster in motion.

Essayist Alex Kanin never imagined his pointed editorial would go viral. Ironically, his attempt to highlight the pitfalls of online criticism has the opposite effect: it revives his own flagging career by destroying that of a perfect stranger. Plagued by guilt-fueled writer's block, Alex vows to do whatever he can to repair the damage. He just doesn't expect his interest in the beautiful chef to turn personal.

Alex agrees to help rebuild Rachel's tarnished image by offering his connections and his home to host an exclusive pop-up dinner party targeted to Denver's most influential citizens: the Saturday Night Supper Club. As they work together to make the project a success, Rachel begins to realize Alex is not the unfeeling opportunist she once thought he was, and that perhaps there's life—and love—outside the pressure-cooker of her chosen career. But can she give up her lifelong goals without losing her identity as well?

The Saturday Night Supper Club* is available for review, and Carla Laureano is available for interviews to discuss:

- RITA award-winning author to release debut novel in new, three book series.
- Strong female entrepreneurs overcoming obstacles in order to chase big dreams.
- The intersection of culture, feminism, career, and faith for the modern Christian woman.
- True identity for the Christian woman lies in Christ alone.
- It's never too late to "right your wrongs" and work towards forgiveness and reconciliation.
- A great book for "foodies" who love cooking and recipes.
- No experience is wasted with God.
- The rise of cooking as entertainment, chefs as celebrities, and what that says about our culture.
- The impact and power that social media has on our culture.

About the Author

Carla Laureano is the RITA® Award-winning author of contemporary inspirational romance and Celtic fantasy (as C.E. Laureano). A graduate of Pepperdine University, she worked as a sales and marketing executive for nearly a decade before leaving corporate life behind to write fiction full-time. She currently lives in Denver with her husband and two sons, where she writes during the day and cooks things at night.

Interview Questions:

- What inspired you to write The Saturday Night Supper Club?
- How do you expect the novel to resonate with your audience? What are you most excited for your readers to experience through reading this story?
- What role does faith play in this story?
- What lessons or truths do you hope people take away from The Saturday Night Supper Club?
- As an author, what did you particularly enjoy about writing this story?
- The story speaks a lot about the friendship of main character, Rachel Bishop, and her two friends Analyn Sanchez and Melody Johansson. Can you tell us your inspiration for this circle of friends, and why you added this dynamic to the story? Which of the three characters can you relate to most and why?
- This story holds a great example of the power of social media in our culture today. How do you hope this influences readers?
- The Saturday Night Supper Club is the debut novel in a new, three book series. Can you give readers a taste of what to expect in the novels to come?

The Saturday Night Supper Club* by Carla Laureano
ISBN: 978-1-4964-2024-4 | Softcover: $14.99
ISBN: 978-1-4964-2827-1 | Hardcover: $24.99
February 2018
Tyndale.com